Fact sheet: Smokefree Environments and Regulated Products (Vaping) Amendment Bill

The following table outlines the key changes to the regulation of the sale and supply of vaping and smokeless tobacco products, as proposed in the Smokefree Environments and Regulated Products (Vaping) Amendment Bill.

<tr>
<td>Tobacco products must not be sold to persons under the age of 18 years. There is a lack of clarity about how the law applies to vaping products. There are no restrictions on the sale of devices to minors.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Advertising, sponsorship

Advertising and sponsorship are prohibited for tobacco products. This includes vaping liquid containing nicotine manufactured from tobacco. There are no restrictions on the advertising of devices and non-nicotine vaping liquid.

Advertising and sponsorship are prohibited (in addition to the existing prohibitions on tobacco products) for all vaping and smokeless tobacco product parts, including vaping liquids.

The Bill exempts public health campaigns that are approved by the Director-General of Health from this prohibition.

Smokefree areas

Smoking is prohibited in indoor workplaces (including bars and restaurants), early childhood centres and schools. The Smoke-free Environments Act does not restrict where people can vape.

Vaping (and using smokeless tobacco products) is prohibited in legislated smokefree areas (e.g. indoor workplaces (except for approved vaping premises – see Retailer registration below), early childhood centres, schools).

The Bill does not change the ability of local authorities to determine whether to include vaping in outdoor smokefree areas (e.g. outdoor dining areas, children’s playgrounds).

Labelling / packaging

There are no packaging restrictions or required health warnings for vaping products or smokeless tobacco devices.

Tailored packaging requirements for vaping products and smokeless tobacco products will be set in regulations. There will be public consultation before these are finalised. It is proposed that New Zealand will follow the UK model.

<td>Product safety</td>
<td></td>

<tr>
<td>There are no product safety requirements</td>
<td>Products will need to comply with any product safety requirements that are set out in regulations, for example, maximum nicotine content of vaping liquids, standards for vaping liquid containers, and standards for vaping devices. These requirements will be publicly consulted on before being finalised. They will come into effect 6 months after the date on which the Act receives Royal assent. It will be the responsibility of the importer or manufacturer to ensure that products meet product safety requirements. Retailers must not sell products that do not meet safety requirements. A searchable database will be available to support retailers to meet this requirement. Manufacturers and importers must advise the Director-General of any adverse reactions to regulated products as soon as they become aware of them. This will come into effect upon commencement of the Act. The Bill allows for ingredients to be prohibited. Prohibited ingredients will be publicly consulted on before being finalised and published on the Ministry of Health’s website. This will come into effect upon commencement of the Act. The Director-General of Health may issue warning statements about products if he or she has reasonable grounds to believe that the product poses a risk of harm to people. Other product-safety powers the Director-General will have include recall of products, and suspension and cancelling of product notifications. There is provision in the Bill to prohibit flavours. No flavours are prohibited at this stage. Rules relating to flavours for specialist vape retailers differ from those for generic retailers (e.g. dairies, service stations, supermarkets) as set out below.</td>

<td>Product notification</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There are no product notification requirements.</td>
<td>Manufacturers and importers must notify products to the Ministry of Health before they can be sold in New Zealand. This will come into effect 6 months after the date on which the Act receives Royal Assent. While the primary responsibility is on the importer or manufacturer, retailers must not sell regulated products that are not notified. A searchable database will be available to support retailers to meet this requirement. A fee will be charged for product notification. The fee will be consulted on and set out in regulations.</td>
