Our environment

1. Is there a baby changing facility at our service?
2. Is there a separate area where family and whānau can visit together with some privacy?
3. Is there easy access from this area to toilets, water/hot drinks, healthy snack-making facilities, play equipment or secure outdoor space?
4. Is there a safe play area with age-appropriate resources (eg, coloured pencils, books, interactive toys/games, craft activities that parents and children can do together)?

Coming in to our service

5. When assessing people, do we routinely ask if they are parents?
6. Do we ask if they or their partners are pregnant or intending to be?
7. Do we use culturally appropriate family and whānau assessment tools, or at least take note of children’s ages, locations, carer relationships, etc?
8. Do staff make children feel welcome if they visit our service (eg, speak to them directly and at their level, not just to the adults with them)?
9. Are parents encouraged to have their children’s photos by their beds if they wish?

While parents are part of our service

10. Are parents encouraged to talk about their children?
11. Are children/young people able to talk with staff / have their questions answered (given parental permission to do so)?
12. Can children and young people easily contact their parents while in our facility (as appropriate), and do parents have some privacy when responding to them?
13. Are parents supported in regularly communicating with their children (as appropriate)?
14. Can babies and/or toddlers ‘room-in’ with their parent if the parent is well enough?
15. Are children/young people included in discharge planning, as appropriate?
Information and support

16. Are age-appropriate information resources/booklets about mental health and addiction issues available for parents to share with their children? Or websites/online resources that staff can recommend?

17. Are there culturally appropriate resources about mental health and addiction issues available for parents to share with their children?

18. Are there staff in our service who specialise in COPMIA* and who are available to children, family and whānau, or to advise staff?

19. Do staff have up-to-date information about local services to which they can refer people for parenting, family and whānau support?
